BEE HIVE WEEK

APRIL 6 - MAY 2

Next week is Bee Hive Week. We want everyone to be Bee Hive conscious and keep in mind what the girls are accomplishing.

The name Bee Hive Girls is taken from the story of Masterlocks "Idle on the Door". These little insects are unselfish and industrious and they work all their lives for the good of the community and each other.

There are three groups of girls. First "The Builders in the Hive", the "The Gatherers of the Honey" and the "Guardians of the Treasure".

They work in seven different fields. First, there is the field of religion. In this field they become familiar with the scriptures and fill cells that make them grow spiritually. In the field of home they learn to do house work and do cook. In Arts and Crafts they are encouraged to sew and do fancy work. In Public Service they do a daily good turn and become mindful of the public good. In the field of health they are given simple health rules of diet and exercises in clear how to control communicable diseases and the treatment and prevention of common colds. In the field of business they learn to pay their bills, budget their money, learn personal neatness and efficiency. In the field of Out of Doors they learn much about plants and trees and geological features, how to make a fire and cook a meal in the open.

I have only mentioned a few of the cells they fill in each field.

Every girl fills four cells and our junior cells in the first two years, making eight cells in each field. In the third year they fill a project in all seven fields and then the year as house badge in every field. Each represents twelve hours work.

Please back the Bee Hive work. It comes to your girls at a critical time in their lives, at a time when these girls are entering the threshold of womanhood. It is at this period of their lives that they are forming their ideals. The ideals they form in their Bee Hive years are likely to be carried throughout their whole lives.

C.P.R. SPEEDS TICKETING

G.A. McNamara, vice president of traffic for the Canadian Pacific Rail way, is just issued a new ticket issuing and accounting machine, the first of its kind on the North American continent, which went into service at the C.P.R.'s Windsor station in Montreal recently. The machine prints its own tickets when the ticket seller inserts a matrix, such as Mr. McNamara holds in his left hand, into the slot on the lower right hand corner. In his right hand Mr. McNamara holds a ticket that the machine has just issued. The bottom picture of one of the coach tickets the machine issues shows how much more compact it is than the type of coach ticket at the right. As well as speeding up ticket sales, the machine keeps full accounting records. Installation of the machine in other main C.P. centres across Canada depends upon the success of the machine in its initial performance in Windsor station, which was picked for the introduction because of the volume of business handled there. It is expected that the machine will be able to handle 90% of the coach tickets issued there, and tickets will be issued in practically all C.P. points within 24 hours traveling time of Montreal.
